

RED CHINA ADMISSION TO U.N. TO BE DEBATED

Will Red China be admitted into the U.N.? The answer to this question shall be given tonight when the student delegates to the United Nations Club's Model Security Council will assemble at 8 pm in the Redpath Museum Amphitheater.

A spokesman for the Club's executive stated that it was hoped that over three hundred people will attend the sessions.

Tonight's agenda includes the following resolutions:

Resolution No. 1
RECOGNIZING that if the United Nations Organization is to reach its maximum usefulness and fulfill its purpose, every nation in the world which meets the obligations set forth in Article 4 of the Charter should be properly represented in it.
REALIZING that the Chinese Peoples Democratic Republic is the de facto government of China and exercises absolute economic and political control over the mainland of China and its 450 million people.
BELIEVING that the representation of the Chinese Peoples Democratic Republic in this organization would improve the international climate and thus facilitate the solution of many problems with which it is seized.
DIRECTS the Secretary-General of the United Nations to accept the credentials of bonafide representatives of the Chinese Peoples Democratic Republic, to the end that this government may be able to assume the privileges and responsibilities accorded to China in the United Nations.

Submitted by United Kingdom.

Resolution No. 2
THE SECURITY COUNCIL
MOVED by anxiety at the general lack of understanding plaguing the world and leading to the burden of increasing armaments and the fear of war.
DESIRING to lift from the peoples of the world this burden and this fear, and thus liberate new energies and resources for peaceful reconstruction and development.
RE AFFIRMING its desire that the United Nations develop measures to maintain and promote peace and that all kinds of armaments of the world should be progressively reduced in accordance with principles and purposes of the Charter.
BELIEVING that continued development of atomic and hydrogen weapons of mass destruction outside the sphere of international control is a threat to the peace and overshadows the hopes of the peoples of the world.

RECOGNIZING that the international control of all atomic and hydrogen armaments is now a matter of urgency and requires the establishment of an international control agency under the direction of the Security Council.

AND RECOMMENDS that this Council instruct the Disarmament Commission to prepare and submit to the Security Council, for its consideration, a draft convention providing for measures to devote all atomic power for peaceful purposes and an adequate plan to ensure effective international control of all future atomic development and conventional armaments.

Submitted by U.S.S.R.

Tomorrow night's schedule includes a resolution on the Middle East problem which recommends to the General Assembly that in the interests of world peace, member governments of the U.N. shall forthwith cease the sale of arms and munitions to Israel and Arab States including Egypt. The last of the four resolutions to be debated by the Model Security Council is a recommendation that the principle of self determination be applied in the case of the peoples of the Island of Cyprus.

Student's Society Calls $5,000 Meeting

The grant of $5,000 by the SEC to the Montreal Transportation Commission will be discussed tomorrow at 1 pm in the Union Ballroom at a Special meeting of the Student's Society. The money was granted "by way of reparation for damage caused and as an expression of the sincerity of the regret felt by the Student's Society for the consequences of the actions of some of its members".

A petition submitted by members of the Society is responsible for the open meeting. The resolution which will be introduced states that "the SEC did not act in the best interests of the members of the Student's Society in accepting responsibility for these demonstration and offering to pay for . . . damages."

The students who signed the petition feel that instead of granting "money for damages, the SEC should attempt to make its voice heard . . . against the raise of fares by the M.T.C."

The $5,000 was offered by the SEC as a result of damage caused in the demonstration last month against the fare increase by the transportation commission.

ACTING LESSONS

The Players Club Acting Lesson will not be held this evening. Mrs. Springford, the instructress, is unfortunately unable to attend today.

Instead there will be an extra lesson given on Friday 27 at the usual time of 8 pm in the McGill Union.

Zaborski To Discuss Iron Curtain

Professor B. Zaborski, of the McGill Geography Department, who is acknowledged to be the greatest authority on Russian and East European Geography in this continent, will deliver two talks under the title: "Along the Iron Curtain."

The first talk, dealing with the situation along the Iron Curtain in Europe, will take place in the Union Workshop on January 19, from 1-2 pm. The second talk, dealing with the situation in Asia, will be given a week later, on January 26 at the same time and place. Everybody is welcome.

HEENAN ELECTED KEY PRESIDENT

Roy Heenan, Arts and Science representative to the SEC was elected President of the Scarlet Key.

Roy Heenan

Heenan is a Third-Year Arts student in Honours Political Science and History. He is on the Debating Union Executive, holds a Gold "A" in debating, is Associate Editor of Fig Leaf and presently is intramural squash champion.

Newman Club

The Newman Club will hold a Communion Breakfast this Sunday at Newman House. Speaker for the occasion will be Dr. Robert Marchessault, whose topic will be "Report on Sweden". All Catholics are urged by the executive to attend.

Elections for executive posts will begin on Monday. The five posts to be filled are President, Men's and Women's Vice-Presidents, and Men's and Women's Councillors. All Catholics at McGill are eligible to vote from Monday to Friday; voting will take place at Newman House from 12-2 pm. There will also be voting for a short time at the Election Dance to be held at Newman House on Saturday, January 28. Election results will be announced at the dance.

COUNCIL CHAIRMEN ANNOUNCED BY SEC

by Bryna Feingold

The following appointments on the Council were made by Ay Cohen, Chairman of SEC:

Appointments

Finance Chairman — Roy Heenan, Arts and Science representative
 External Affairs Chairman—Ralph Ordower, Arts and Science representative

Dance Chairman—Pete Reid, Commerce representative
 Constitutions Chairman—Jimmy Domville, Law representative
 Automobile Parking—Marv Johnson, Physio and Phys. Ed. representative

Chief Returning Officer—Jerry Miller, Architecture representative
 Academic Interest Chairman—Harvey Sigman, Medicine representative

The Council appointed the following people to the Awards Committee: Miss Patty Mowat, SEC representative; Mike Fish, Danny Kingstone, and Peter Milner as members-at-large.

SEC Minutes

A motion was carried that SEC minutes be posted on the notice boards of each faculty, before the approval of same by the Council, but with a notice to this effect attached.

A proposal was put forth calling for the decision for posting of unofficial minutes to be left up to the individual faculty members, but this suggestion was defeated.

"We should evolve an official policy on the matter," argued Roy Heenan; "inconstant action in this respect would not be fair to the faculties as a group."

Handbook

Neville Linton was appointed Editor-in-Chief of the Handbook.

Non-voting Editor

The Council failed to support a suggestion that a recommendation be made to the Students' Society to the effect that the Editor-in-Chief of the Daily become a non-voting member of SEC. It was felt by the majority that former editors had not been hampered in their voicing of opinion in the Daily while retaining the vote, but that, in the words of Ralph Ordower, "the Editor's lack of a vote would influence the Council in a negative manner."

Change in Daily

A motion recommended by the Managing Board was passed allowing the Daily's volume be increased to three eight-page issues per week, instead of the present two such weekly issues. This change is to be on a temporary experimental basis, the purpose of which is to increase the volume of advertising and try to alleviate part of the $9,000 loss the Daily incurs yearly.

A Student Advertising Committee would undertake the supplementary soliciting, subject to a list of advertising customers submitted by Miss M. E. Heasley Advertising Manager. The customers would consist of those who do not at present advertise in the Daily. The Committee members are to be chosen by the Daily Editor-in-Chief, subject to Council approval.

HILLEL TO SPONSOR ORLINSKY ADDRESS

Dr. Harry M. Orlinsky, world noted Bible Scholar and Professor of Bible at the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion, New York will address a public Hall, this Friday evening, January 20, at 8 pm.

A native of Toronto, Dr. Orlinsky holds degrees from the University of Toronto and Dropsie College. He served as Fellow at the University of Pennsylvania, The American School of Oriental Research in Jerusalem, and at the Hebrew University.

Bible Editor

Dr. Orlinsky was a member of the Committee that recently produced the Revised Standard Version of the Old Testament, and is now serving as editor-in-chief of a new English Translation of the Hebrew Bible undertaken by the Jewish Publication Society of America.

Among the positions held by Dr. Orlinsky are those of member of the Editorial Committees of the Society of Biblical Literature and of the Old Testament Section of the American Standard Bible Committee, Chairman of the American Friends of the Israel Exploration Society, and a member of the Executive Committee of the American Oriental Society.

FACULTY OF ARTS AND SCIENCE CHANGE OF COURSE SECOND TERM

The change of course period for the second term will extend from January 11 to January 21 (noon). During this period students in the Faculty of Arts and Science may change their registration in second term courses only, so that they may drop a second term course for which they registered originally and replace it by another second term course.

In order to be properly registered the student must effect this change by completing the official change of course form available in the assistant dean's office. These forms (three in number) must be completed and turned in by the student who should call back in three days to receive his copy which will be signed if the change is approved. Merely turning in the forms does not constitute authority for the change and it is the student's responsibility to ascertain that the change has been approved.

Positively no changes will be considered after this deadline date of January 21.

THE PRESS AND THE VOTE

The Editor-in-Chief and the Managing Board of the Daily have felt for some time that it is no longer wise for the Editor-in-Chief to sit as a full voting member of the Students' Executive Council.

The Editor of the Daily is appointed to the SEC and is the only member sitting on the Council who is not the direct representative of one or another group of students on campus. For an appointed member to have equal voting rights and yet not speak for any body of students does not seem quite fair.

More important; by far, than this consideration is the fact that we believe that the Daily, being the only regular vehicle for the expression of student political opinions, should remain completely impartial to decisions made by the SEC.

That is certainly not to say that the Daily will not express its opinions on such decisions; but it is rather to say that the Daily will always be able to look upon those decisions with the clear eyes and unprejudiced assessments of an outside observer.

Furthermore casting a ballot at a council meeting would certainly prejudice the examination of that decision in retrospect. Few men looking back upon a course of action embarked upon some six months before could fail to be influenced by the fact that they stand on record as having voted in a such or such a way. It would be far too easy to fall into the pit of explaining or excusing the decision on the basis of that vote.

The Daily then wishes its Editor to sit upon the Council in an ex officio capacity only. In this way he would be able to keep abreast of student politics, contribute to the Council any worthwhile information concerning student opinion, that he might have, and yet would be able to steer clear of political bias and involvement.

Machinery to this end has already been set in motion. The final decision rests with the students. This decision will have to be made in a Students' Society meeting after two weeks prior notice is given in the Daily.

BRAVO! BRAVISSIMO!

"We Canadians are a stodgy race. We are conservative in the full sense of the word. We tend even further toward a state of reaction. We are afraid of being enthusiastic or even interested."

This statement is not a quote in the strict sense. It represents merely a common opinion stated often in a variety of circumstances. There are two aspects of Canadian life to which this statement applies in particular: the political and the theatrical.

As far as politics are concerned, Canadians are simply not interested. This is true of the majority as the voting percentage indicates when Canada occasionally undergoes the formality of an election. But this seems to be true of Canadian politics only. There seems to be a great interest in this country in America's political life. This may be true only of the minority but does inject a ray of hope. American politics are dramatic if admittedly a little too noisy. It has been suggested that Canada might adopt some of the drama in our own political arena to attract our interest from the "show" south of the border.

As far as the theatre is concerned Canadians seem to be afraid of indicating any enthusiasm. To the habitual theatre-goer in Montreal, for instance, it is a rare thing to hear an audience thunder with applause and bravos. It is no excuse to say that the presentations to be seen in this city are not of sufficient calibre. A little investigation will dismiss that claim. We should not be afraid to express legitimate approval of an outstanding performance by vociferous applause. This is not considered undignified! The BRAVO is a recognised thing in theatrical repertoire all over the world. Why not in our own Montreal?

For Censure

Sir:

On Friday there will be a meeting of the Student's Society to vote in or reject a motion censuring the payment of $5000 to the MTC. I would like to indicate some reasons for voting for the bill.

Firstly, I would advance once more the old argument that payment of the money is essentially an admission of guilt. I believe that the students did nothing wrong in acting as they did, and that they carried on in a manner not inconsistent with the accepted ways of a democratic society. The degeneration of the demonstration into an undisciplined riot is unfortunate and is to be condemned. Nevertheless I do not believe that the students were to blame for the destruction and thus they should not condemn themselves through the medium of the SEC.

However, in this letter my main concern is with the action of the SEC. Throughout the entire affair the SEC acted badly. Firstly, there is the very significant fact that not one member of the SEC was officially present at the demonstration. The demonstration was one of the most important crises to arise on the campus in a long time, and the amount of spirit being generated on the campus is indicative of this fact. And yet, as I said before, no member of the SEC was officially present. It is inconceivable that every single member of the Council didn't hear of the impending demonstration on the day it was to take place. At least half of the members were aware of the demonstration; considering that they are the elected representatives of the student body, is it too demanding to ask that some of these representatives should be at an affair which concerned nearly every student? The members of the SEC had two choices when they heard of the demonstration; they could approve of it or not. If they approved of it, then they should have felt it incumbent upon themselves to represent the students should a representative be needed. As it turned out, one was needed and a student holding no public office was spontaneously put forth. To reiterate then, if they are our representatives, why did they not represent us?

Assuming that some of the members chose to disagree with the demonstration (as some showed by encouraging people not to go) I feel that it was still their duty to go along with the students. If he feared that the affair would degenerate, he should have been there in an attempt to influence the students not to use violence. If the people of Canada should suddenly decide of their own accord to attack the U.S., then the government of Canada, though they may disagree with this demonstration, must back up the people. Failing that, they must resign, for they are no longer representatives.

The day after the decision to vote the money, one of the members of the SEC presented to me this very interesting fact; that it was on the very strong recommendation of a McGill Senate Committee that the money was voted. If the payment was made as a placative gesture to the citizens of the city, it was erroneously made, for must the activities of a university be always accountable to the particular locality in which it finds itself? And again, if it was feared by the Council that the student demonstration would influence the amount of financial support received from the citizens, this must be considered: if a university can continue its operation only if the behaviour of students is approved of by the whims of wealthy contributors, then it is resting on false premises. What is important is the record the university has achieved in the Arts and the Sciences and in research, and not whether the behaviour of the students is agreeable to the wishes of a small number of unduly influential men.

Letters to the Editor

And, why should the McGill Senate attempt to influence the activities of the students when they profess to give the students a free hand? And why should the SEC submit to this intimidation? The SEC stand accused lack of courage.

I will support the vote of censure of the SEC because they have demonstrated their lack of leadership and their lack of courage. The students have now an opportunity to demonstrate that they want dynamic, intelligent and courageous leadership; instead of endless talk about student apathy, perhaps the election of some student leaders really interested in the welfare of the students would be more in order.

Lionel Tiger, B.A. III.

No Contradiction

Sir:

In reply to Mr. Brierley's last article I must confess I can see no contradiction in terms involved in thinking of Forge as an extended student-faculty enterprise. Having an all-student publication has its advantages but the first magazine a university ought to have should be a good magazine and not a student magazine. Today we only have a student magazine. A good magazine is one that attempts to get good contributions, the very best it can possibly get. But a good deal of the best writing on the campus today is not being done by students. We should not forget that a University is a 'universe' not restricted to students alone, but a community of pupils and professors. F. R. Scott, H. MacLennan, L. Dudek, N. J. Berrill, to pick but a few names at random, who are doing some of the best creative work in Canada today are on the staff and readily available. A great many of us don't even know they are here.

I submit that Forge not only could be, but as a matter of fact should be enlarged so as to include faculty contributions. To advocate the isolation of students from professors and professors from students is a grave mistake. Considering the relatively small number of serious literary publications in Canada the creative writer on the staff needs space, the student writer for his development needs the companionship of older and more experienced men and McGill, in the regretted absence of a 'McGill University Press', needs a good magazine.

The merely negative attitude of 'recording' the writing that is being done, or even only that which a few students bother to submit will certainly not suffice. A magazine should not be mistaken for a literary handbook, faithfully recording creative prosperity or adversity; a magazine does not begin to fulfil its function until it has become a centre of literary activity, stimulating creative work as well as recording it.

John Lachs, B.A. 4.

Athletics Night Events In Brief

This Saturday night at 8 pm, the Redmen hoopsters will face their perennial rivals, Queen's Golden Gaels at the Currie Gym in the second Athletics Night of the season. Queen's Alumnae and Grads are to accompany the Kingston squad. Although winless to date, the Redmen, led by 6'4" Leon Duplessis and six foot Don Wright, should show well against the Gaels quintet.

At 8:30 the Quebec Junior Squash Championships will take place with Smith-Chapman meeting Dave Pemberton-Smith. Many other interesting events will round out the evening's entertainment.

ANDERSON'S CAGERS TO TACKLE QUEEN'S

The Golden Gaels of coach Frank Tindall will be guests of honour at Athletics Night this Saturday night. Their hosts will be Joe Anderson's senior cagers who will be looking for their first league win of the season.

In their only previous league start the Redmen dropped a 63-48 decision to the mighty Mustangs of Johnny Metras. Queen's were humbled by these same Mustangs to the tune of 74-42.

Anderson was highly optimistic over his team's chances against the Gaels. The Kingston squad has only two members of last year's team back again and their replacements for such stars as Paul Fedor, and Jay MacMahon have not impressed observers to date.

Redmen hopes will once again lie on the shoulders of Leon Duplessis. The tall bucket man who led the league in scoring last year, was held to five points against Western, but Anderson is counting on him to hit his scoring stride on Saturday.

Another key man in the Redmen attack will be Don Wright. The sophomore guard played an outstanding game against Western and scored 21 points, mostly on driving layups through the key-hole.
